

The Influence of Chinese Marxism on the Construction of the Core Values of College Students

Qian Wu

School of Marxism, Tianjin University of Commerce, Tianjin, 300134, China

Abstract: The Chinese Marxism is the process of forming a Marxist theoretical system with Chinese characteristics, which provides an important theoretical basis for the construction of the core values of college students. The materialistic historical view in Chinese Marxism guides college students to recognize the essence when solving practical problems and emphasizes the influence of practical action; the theory of seeking truth from facts in Marxism inspires college students to keep feet on the ground and learn humbly; the development concept of people-oriented inspires college students to cherish the people and pay attention all-round development, also with patriotism and the initiative to devote to socialist construction. On the basis of absorbing the basic theory of Marxism, this paper analyzes the influence of Chinese Marxism on the construction of the core values of college students, with a view to establish the correct core values of socialism and guiding them to devote themselves to socialist construction.

Keywords: Chinese Marxism; College students; Construction of core values; Influence

1. Introduction

College students are the pillars of the future construction of the motherland. They are in the youth now. It is the key period for them to construct core values. The development process and the socialist construction with Chinese characteristics have proved that Chinese Marxism is the right choice, and has a profound influence on the core values of college students. College students are the builders and successors of the socialist cause. Only by establishing correct values and having good cultural cultivation can they build socialism and promote the development of China's socialist modernization better. Under the current condition, relying on the guiding of the process of Chinese Marxist can cultivate college students the correct values.

2. Chinese Marxist Guide College Students to Establish Materialist View of History

Looking back on the process of Chinese Marxism, China has formed many representative ideas that are suitable for China's development. By setting up ideological and political related courses, college students can integrate the knowledge of Chinese Marxism into their own lives, guide their action and make correct choices in social life. Under the guidance of the principle of the relationship between material and consciousness, college students abandoned idealism such as Falun Gong, the old rural customs feng shui, and armed their minds with scientific ideas. This is an important aspect of the influence of Marxism on the core values of college students today. It is conducive to establish a correct concept for them. The interview and other research studies show that college students rarely believe superstition. The vast majority of college students can guide their own actions with materialistic ideas.

Consciousness has an important reaction to matter. Correct consciousness can guide practice in the right direction and lead to success. The core values of college students are a kind of consciousness. This consciousness can be counterproductive to the material. Only by establishing the correct consciousness college students can take actions better. Chinese Marxism can help college students to establish the correct consciousness and promote their own development. The role consciousness play is basic and cannot be ignored. Materialistic values are the guidance to guide our actions and the magic weapon that guides contemporary college students to success. Materialist values are the correct theory proved by practice. College students are in the key period of establishing correct world view, life view and values. So, we should adhere to materialist values. To establish Marxist materialism is to abandon the wrong idea of idealism. According to the survey, college graduates are more rational than those who have no college experience of their peers, and have a stronger ability to analyze and solve problems, and are able to think comprehensively when facing with difficult problems. It also shows that Chinese Marxism has an important impact on the core values of college students. Whether a person is on the right path depends on the guidance of correct consciousness. The Marxist view of materialism is the correct theory. With the premise that internalizing the materialist view of history into its own guiding ideology, college students can better serve as socialist builders and successors. The guiding effect of materialism on the core values of college students is that it is a banner to lead the growth of college students, guiding them to combine theory with practice.

3. Chinese Marxist Guide College Students to Establish Patriotism

China's patriotism condenses many excellent qualities. The essence of patriotism run through the development of the socialism cause with Chinese characteristics. In recent years, General Secretary Xi Jinping pay special attention to the cultivation of national conditions, repeatedly stressed to cultivate the young student with patriotism education and inheritance. At this stage, Chinese characteristic socialist construction has entered a new period. Young college students and the whole Chinese nation's concept has changed greatly than before. People's ideological levels are not the same. With the rapid development of the Internet and other high-tech in today's world, China's comprehensive national strength continues to improve. Especially, our country is in the new period of socialist modernization. Patriotism thought should be more integrated into our heart. With the close connection of all countries in the world, the world is increasingly becoming a global village. In recent years, the number of college students studying abroad has increased significantly. Patriotism is even more important to overseas student. "Science doesn't have borders, but scientists have their own motherland, " The early generation have such moving love for the nation, so does the current. A college student with patriotism should make the honor and interests of the motherland priority. No country no home.

Only have a home can people develop well. The young college students are the future and hope of the motherland and bears an important responsibility in the future development of the Chinese nation. The youngsters stronger, the country more powerful. Only young college students deeply integrated into the love of the motherland will their ideas be richer, the road wider. Then they can have a bright future. With the continuous development of socialism with Chinese characteristics, the environment in which college students grow up has profound changes compared with the past. In this context, patriotism is more unique to young college students. With the change and development of the times, patriotism is not only the peace-loving content of the past, but also gives new connotation and profound content. As a socialist country, China's socialist development path has obvious superiority. In essence, patriotism and love of socialism is the same. Therefore, in the contemporary social practice, in order to cultivate the patriotism, we must first cultivate the enthusiasm and passion to love socialism of the contemporary young college students. Only when the patriotism of the contemporary young college students is truly integrated into their hearts, they will establish a better world view, life view and even values in their college career. Xi Jinping's new era of socialism with Chinese characteristics proposes to establish a five-in-one strategic system, which emphasizes the necessity to enhance cultural self-confidence and share Chinese stories. Share Chinese story well cannot be separated from the main force of the era of college students. So, only college students have eternal patriotism in their hearts and integrated their patriotism into the bone can bring China's brand culture into the world.

Marxist theory clearly puts forward the importance of the important role of the people. We must not forget the role of the people in the historical development process, and always establish the people-centered development concept. The scientific concept of development also emphasizes the concept of people-centered. The people-centered concept of Chinese Marxism guide college students to treat everyone around them in a peaceful and friendly manner and to establish patriotism. College students actively contribute their own strength to serve the society is also a kind of patriotism. For example, in the outbreak of the new coronavirus, medical college students take the initiative to take on the heavy responsibility and don't afraid of risk and use their professional knowledge to actively treat patients infected with the virus. There are other student volunteers. And some of them are born after 1995. It is because of the correct guidance of the value they take the touching action. The people-centered ideology has a profound influence on college students. Facing great events, the actions of college students have proved that the concept of patriotism has a profound impact on the construction of the core values of college students.

4. Chinese Marxist Guides College Students to be Creative

The theory of Chinese Marxism has been continuously improved and developed with the change times. Marxist theory has the part to establish the consciousness of innovation, which guides the contemporary college students to face challenge bravely, break out stereotypes, innovate boldly, and solve problems constantly. The future construction of the country mainly depends on the younger generation. The youth group bears the burden of building a better motherland. And now the competition of comprehensive national strength is the competition between innovation, science and technology and other elements. Which Country have strong innovation ability can be in an invincible position in the process of world development. Innovation is the soul of the progress of all ethnic groups. The innovation of college students is embodied in constantly breaking through the shackles of old theoretical knowledge and thinking ideas, and dares to challenge new problems and study new situations. In current era, the scientific research achievements of college students increased in productivity. All fields of research have excellent team and individual. The invention patent results are increasing, which also fully illustrates the impact of innovation on college students. Especially in recent years, some preferential policies encourage college students to innovate and start a business. More and more college students engaged in the cause of innovation and development. At present, the country has implemented the strategy of rural revitalization, and introduced many preferential measures to support the development of rural areas. Many conscientious college students actively respond to the call of the state. Through the examination of "village officials", they contribute their own strength for the construction of a new socialist countryside with scientific and cultural knowledge. Management innovation in rural areas are promoted. More villagers are led to become rich. Fruitful results are achieved relying on their own innovation ability.

Innovation is a weapon to promote the development of the times. Chinese Marxism emphasizes innovation. Through concrete practice it is proved that precisely because of the guidance of innovation, the speed of development accelerated, the level of development improved. Innovation profoundly affects the shaping of the core values of contemporary college students.

5. Chinese Marxist Guides College Students to Continue to Participate in Practice

The relationship between practice and cognition is described in detail in Marxist philosophy theory, and through theory we can realize the decisive effect of practice on cognition. College students are more exposed to theory knowledge. "If you believe all that written in the book, it is better to have no book". We need to realize the important role of practice. Mr. Yuan Longping said, "Rice can't be reaped in books", which again points out the difference between practice and books, emphasizing the importance of practice. In the process of Chinese Marxism, Marxism conform to China's specific national conditions. In the course of practice, success is created again and again. The Chinese Marxism is the theory of continuous improvement and development. The process of Chinese Marxism is the process of combining with Chinese concrete practice. Practice is the only criterion to test the truth. While today's college students just know it. Only by transferring their own understanding into practice, can really drive the development of productive forces.

6. Conclusions

The Chinese Marxism has an important influence on the thought, consciousness and behavior of contemporary college students, and we must stick to the vision of advancing with the times to treat Marxist thought. The college students are in the most precious period of life. We will learn a lot of theories and ideas, accept the cultivation of different ideas. University period is also the most critical period to develop the correct view on life, values, world. The influence of Chinese Marxism on college students reflected that Marxist materialist historical view guide college students with materialist view to understand the world and change the world, discard the wrong idea of idealism. The viewpoint of Marxist practice guides college students to pay attention to practice and explore, not only to look ahead the future, but also focus on the current. Practice is the source of understanding. Practice is the driving force of understanding and development, and can solve new problems constantly in the process of practice. The concept of humanism is the internal driving force guiding the development of college students. The humanist thinking embodied in the process of Chinese Marxism is a powerful force to guide college students to keep moving forward. It is because of this way of thinking college students make outstanding contributions by virtue of their own knowledge and ability. In short, the guidance of Chinese Marxism to the core values of college students are reflected in many aspects. It is a banner guiding the continuous development and progress of college students.

References

- [1] Wang Lili. Research on the construction of the socialist core value system and the core values of college students. Northeast Normal University. 2013.
- [2] Meng Xiaoli. Research on the construction of the core values of contemporary college students. Lanzhou University of Technology. 2010.
- [3] Shi Guoliang. The spirit of may 4th and the responsibility of chinese youth in the new era - learn from general secretary xi jinping's speech at the general assembly to mark the 100th anniversary of the may fourth movement. Journal of China Youth College for Political Sciences. 2019, 38(03), 1-8.